MADISON — Teachers walked the picket line Monday in the Madison School District.

The strike was called early Monday morning by leaders of the Madison Federation of Teachers Local 736.

Negotiations were at a standstill Monday with no meeting scheduled, said Luvenia Long, building union representative at Madison High School.

AN UNSUCCESSFUL EFFORT to divert the strike was made at 12:30 a.m. Monday. Superintendent John Palchiff said he talked with Bert Ewing, field service director of the Illinois Federation of Teachers, but the two could not come to terms.

The mandated inclusion of binding arbitration in grievance procedure is a major stumbling block to an agreement, according to both sides.

Instead of a strike, both sides could have met for further discussion on Tuesday, Palchiff said Monday. He said he told Ewing the grievance procedure could be discussed at the meeting in an effort to avert a strike. The two men were supposed to get together on Monday to set up the Tuesday meeting, Palchiff said, but instead a strike was called.

The school buildings were open and buses ran the regular route Monday. Palchiff said he could not

Students mixed on prospects of long strike

By JACK C. VENTIMIGLIA
Executive Editor

MADISON — Early "vacation" is a mixed bag for students in the Madison school district.

Some students are predictably pleased with having a few days off, but others dread a possibly extended school year.

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL, Alfonso McHenry said he isn't looking forward to a long strike.

"We don't want to go to school in the summer," he said.

Another opinion is held by student Arachel Vauters.

"I'd rather go to school in the warm than in the cold," he said.

"I say I hope it's less than a week," said classmate Kenneth Selton.

AT HARRIS SCHOOL, Andy Sturgeon, 11, complained to a group of teachers.

"Why do you got to do it today?" he asked.

Teachers said they tried to contact parents to let them know not to send their children to school.

Parent Sue Skolke was one of the few parents who didn't listen. She confirmed being called by a teacher, but then she called the school. The school told her to send her child to class.

"I'm one of seven that had their kids show up this morning," she said. She walked her child away from the Harris School. "Not enough students showed up so they're sending them all home."

LEAVING MIDDLE SCHOOL for home, Malcolm Withrow, 12, and his brother Eric, 11, were hurried along by the cold November wind. Malcolm said few students showed up for school.

It's going to take up most of the summer," Eric predicted. "And that's going to spoil some people's vacations."

close the schools in the event the teachers would decide to work.

A TEACHER walking picket duty at the high school, John Harrison, said other items to be discussed should include class size at the high school. Some classes average 22 students, but some have 39. The union contract seeks a class size of 25 students.

Union President Willie Dennis said Palchiff verbally agreed to salary increases proposed by the teachers team if all other items were disregarded.

The teachers' last proposal was for 7 percent raises, plus seniority increment payments of $450. The board's last offer called for salary increases of from 2 to 6 percent.

The union offered to settle for a one-year deal on a 6.6 percent basis, but would not give up demands on other contract items, Dennis said Monday.

THE UNION PRESIDENT said if the two factions cannot come to an agreement he is in favor of third-party involvement in the discussions.

Union members met on Oct. 22 and reaffirmed their intention to strike, Dennis said. At that time, teachers also gave the executive council the right to set a strike date. An Oct. 25 meeting did not reconcile union and school board differences and the union council named Nov. 4 as the strike date.

Country peddlers thrive on party line

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
Staff writer

Running your own business and taking care of three youngsters can be pretty hectic. But Jan Greathouse of Granite City has made a success of both occupations.

Country Peddlers, a craft party business, was recently started by her. The parties are similar to those of Tupperware, except that customers may take purchases home with them that day.

ALL THE HAND-CRAFTED items shown at the parties are made by Granite City residents. The crafts range from doll clothing to woodworking items and cost between 15 cents and $38.

Greathouse said the hardest part of her business was getting started.

"I got the idea for the business about five years ago when my first son was in diapers," she said. "I thought I would start the business as soon as I got him out of diapers, but I got pregnant again."

It wasn't until after she had her third child that she finally got started.

SHE SAID she wouldn't be able to conduct the parties now if it wasn't for an understanding husband.

"He's helped me a lot," she said of her husband, Walter "Shang" Jr. "He's given me a lot of ideas on how to conduct things because I've never been in the business world before."

When she goes to parties at night, her husband cares for the three children. But when she has to make business errands during the day, it's another story.

"I HAUL THEM with me," she said of her two younger children, who are not in school yet. "They're my little shadows."

Greathouse said she keeps all of the craft items in the garage, away from curious little hands.

Reviews & Previews In the News

Police, fire board expanded

APPOINTMENTS TO AN EXPANDED Board of Fire and Police Commissioners were announced Oct. 29 by Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols at a City Council meeting. James Baker, 1329 Robin St., a railroad employee, was appointed to the board to fill the vacancy of the late Eddie E. Johnisse. Mr. Johnisse, 63, died Oct. 7. The Rev. John Henry Williams, president of the Venice Board of Park Commissioners, and the Rev. Harold Wilson Sr., a Madison County deputy sheriff, joined the commission as well.

Pontoon Beach approves mini-mall

THE SUBDIVIDED PLAT for a new mini-mall being developed by Frank Mehelic was approved by the Pontoon Beach Village Board Oct. 29. Mehelic, a former Nameoki Township highway commissioner, presented the plan to the trustees Oct. 22 and it was held for review by the village engineer. The proposed mall would be built on the west side of Illinois Route 111, across from the village hall.

Top county school job sought

VASIL EFTIMOFF LAST WEEK became the fourth Granite Citian to enter the 1986 Democratic primary for election as Madison County regional superintendent of schools. Eftimoff served on the Granite City High School Board in 1949-50 and was a founding member of the Granite City District 9 board, serving from 1950 to 1954. Now 61, he retired in 1983 as administrative assistant to the district superintendent.

Winds lift balloons to Granite

SHANNON GERGEN, 4, LOOKED OUT of his grand-mother's window at 4123 Rode Ave. Oct. 29 and saw a bunch of balloons in her tree. The balloons traveled 150 miles between Evansville, Ind., and Granite City and came to rest in the Gergens' tree. Mark Freese, coordinator of the program at Reitz High in Evansville, said the balloons were released as part of the school's effort to raise money for renovation of the Statue of Liberty.

Game blamed for Pontoon death

A GAME OF "RUSSIAN ROULETTE" may have led to the death of a Pontoon Beach man Oct. 27, police said. James Kevin Potmas, 27, of 4036 Kathy Drive, Apt. 9, died at 11:15 p.m. from an apparently self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head. Madison County Deputy Corner Edward Besserman pronounced him dead at the scene.

Pontoon Beach annexes 153 acres

PONTON BEACH IS 153 ACRES bigger following approval of an annexation Oct. 29. The property lies east and south of Highway 162 and includes land owned by Robert J. Rickert, Gary Wright, Mapco and a tower owned by Columbia Broadcasting System Inc. The area, comprised of agricultural and business properties, is zoned for general business.

Downpour doesn't dampen parade

Armed robbery nets cash, goods

TWENTY VIDEO RECORDERS, $1,407 in cash and a van were among the items taken in an armed robbery at about 8:05 p.m. Friday at CMC Stereo, 3142 Nameoki Road. Duct tape was used to bind and blindfold store manager Michael Bledermann and a woman employee, both of whom were threatened.

Georgetown plan enters round four

A RESUBDIVIDED PLAT of Georgetown Drive in Pontoon Beach has been submitted to the Village Board of Trustees for the fourth time and is on "hold" pending a written legal opinion from the village attorney. The "hold" involves the frontage requirement on the lots. The village code requires 30-foot frontage, and village officials said this may pertain to lot width at the street and not the right-of-way.

Image of Gorbachev builds prior to summit

Every TV network is feverishly competing to get a presummit interview with Mikhail Gorbachev.

The person who will make the final decision is the incomparable Soviet image maker, Mik Deaverovich (cq). It was Deaverovich who sold the Russian people on the fact that style was more important than substance. As Gorbachev's press chief during the recent Soviet elections, Deaverovich came up with the catchy slogan, "Vote for somebody who is red, but not dead."

So effective was Deaverovich's political strategy that when Konstantin Chernenko died, Gorbachev was elected less than five hours later—in a landslide. Since then Deaverovich has been consulted on everything Gorbachev does. He was responsible for advancing the Secretary's trips to London and Paris as well as setting up photo opportunities with Margaret Thatcher, Francois Mitterrand and Tip O'Neill.

Deaverovich has posed Gorbachev talking to nurses in a Lenin hospital, listening to hardhats in a Lenin auto works, and shaking hands at a university with Lenin grads (cq).

Not only does Deaverovich serve Gorbachev, but he also works for the Soviet leader's wife. Moscow watchers say that Raisa Gorbachev, who is the real power in the Kremlin, does not make a move without first checking it out with Deaverovich.

"This being the case I decided to pick up the phone and speak to the man. It was much easier than I thought."

The Soviet operator put me right through, after saying "Thank you for using ST&T."

"Mr. Deaverovich, I'm calling about the selection you have to make concerning the Secretary's first American television appearance."

"We are noodling it. Goodbye."

"Wait a minute. How will you arrive at your decision?"

"I just received the overnight ratings from our KGB man in New York. Daniel Rather defeated Peter Jennings and Thomas Brokaw. What kind of a man is this Rather?"

"He's a very decent sort, but then again so are Jennings and Brokaw. The three are only a point apart."

"Our mole at ABC says a point means a million viewers. I cannot allow the Secretary to appear in a vast wasteland."

"So you're putting your boy on the 'Evening News'?"

"Not necessarily. We are also considering one of the morning shows. The Secretary likes Phyllis George very much."

"Phyllis is a fine interviewer, but unfortunately she no longer works on the CBS morning show. What about late night? Ted Koppel is hot right now."

"The Secretary doesn't want to go head-to-head with Johnny Carson. Since our leader is making only one TV appearance, we're hoping to make the top ten."

"Would Mr. Gorbachev consider a walk-on part in 'Dallas'?"

"No, our Bulgarian agent in Hollywood reports it is full of filthy double-crossing capitalists. What other shows would you suggest?"

"There is 'Entertainment Tonight,' 'Miami Vice,' 'The Phil Donahue Show,' and then my favorite, 'Wheel of Fortune.' The best thing about 'Wheel of Fortune' is Gorbachev will not only have a large audience, but he can also win some very valuable prizes."

"It's not dignified. Tell me Comrade, what is this Howard Cosell like?"

"He tells it like it is," I said.

"How do you mean 'like it is'?"

"Remember when Khrushchev took off his shoe and banged it on the table? Well, if Howard doesn't agree with the person he is talking to he does the same thing."

Symington favored isolationism

If there was an American godfather of the United Nations it was Sen. J. William Fulbright. It was Sen. J. William Fulbright, not Sen. J. William Fulbright, who was passionately convinced that a united United Nations held the key to "peace through collective security."

His last years in the Senate, disillusioned and then dismayed, Sen. Symington became an arch-isolationist.

The United Nations had not kept its promises. Worse than that, it has become a useless extravagance and a Trojan Horse for potential enemy infiltration of our nation.

On the occasion of the U.N.'s 40th anniversary it went through the motions of self-examination.

A designated U.N. watchdog group chaired by Maurice Bertrand of France audited the U.N.'s several functions, and even this internal report found it difficult to defend the organization or to justify its continued existence.

The report conceded that the United Nations has "become overwhelmed by outdated and imprecise ideas, is in a state of virtual paralysis."

The report cites "fragmentation of activities, absence of coordination, mediocrity of many documents, lack of precision and modesty."

The U.N. has much to be modest about. When the issue is war or peace, whether in Afghanistan, Nicaragua or the Persian Gulf, the U.N. is utterly impotent.

Those criticized "documents" issued by the U.N. get little mention or attention in the United States but, as Charles Krauthammer says it, "they are megaphoned" through 65 information centers around the world quoting torrents of criticism of the United States, republishing the bitriotic utterances of bush-league diplomats blaming us for violating press rights, women's rights, race rights; depicting us as stealthy, wealthy warmongers.

"But what about UNESCO?" the apologists insist. "Does it not promote scientific and cultural programs in the developing world?"

The fact is that UNESCO spends 78 percent of its total budget maintaining its own elaborate headquarters in Paris.

Mr. Bertrand's report concludes with recommendations for renovation and remodeling of the U.N. which he thinks might help.

Favors making Social Security an independent

To the Editor: On Sept. 19, the House Subcommittee on Social Security unanimously approved a bill to make the Social Security Administration an independent agency in 1988 and to separate the old age, survivors and disability trust funds from federal budget operations in 1987.

Sponsored by Subcommittee Chairman James R. Jones, the bill calls for an independent agency, with new proposals to keep Social Security funds separate and distinct from all other funds administered by the federal government.

Once Social Security is made a separate agency, with its trust funds removed from the unified federal budget, senior citizens will be greatly reassured that the program upon which they are so dependent will no longer be a "political football."

Social Security trust funds now have large surpluses and will continue to have them for the next 35 years. In view of the financial soundness of the Social Security system, now is the time to finally remove this program from the year-to-year deliberations on the federal budget.

Social Security is not financed through general revenues, as are all other government programs, but comes from payroll taxes especially targeted for benefits. By law, Social Security funds can only be used to pay Social Security benefits and administrative costs; they cannot be used for other programs.

Under the terms of the 1983 Social Security compromise, Social Security will be removed from the unified budget in 1993. But we must urge Congress to accelerate this action, combining the move with establishment of an independent Social Security agency.

Existence of such an agency would be visible proof that Social Security is an ongoing insurance and retirement program, one that continues for years to come and is not just

Teachers boost United gifts

To the Editor: During my tenure as chairman of the 1985 Tri-Cities Area United Way campaign, I have been privileged to witness many examples of caring and generosity throughout our community.

Trying to list all of them would be nearly impossible. However, there is one example I feel compelled to mention to the citizens of our community.

That is the effort and response of the educators and administrators of School District 9 of Granite City. Our teachers have responded to the needs of the United Way by increasing their donations over 100 percent.

This represents a selfless act and should be commended and remembered by the community.

The quality of life of a town or city is the result of many interwoven activities that come together, supporting each other. Our teachers are a major link in this process and they have shown their support for our other valuable services.

Monsanto restructuring will mean 573 layoffs

By DAVID GOSNELL
Staff writer

SAUGET — Some area residents may be out of job at the W. G. Krummrich Monsanto Plant in Sauget.

Monsanto will soon be laying off a total of 573 employees at its John P. Queeny Plant in St. Louis and the Krummrich Plant as a result of the major corporate restructuring of the giant chemical corporation.

Company spokesman Dan Bishop said the restructuring will cause a loss of 223 jobs at the Krummrich Plant, including 350 jobs, including 106 salaried positions and 245 hourly jobs.

The layoffs are part of a major reorganization of the company that includes pulling out of some low-return businesses and production facilities and the buying of other companies that Monsanto deems as having a more promising future.

"Today we are announcing the most comprehensive restructuring and reorganization programs in Monsanto's history. These changes are vital as we adapt to a radically altered and highly competitive global economy," Monsanto President Richard J. Mahoney said last week in a released statement explaining the reorganization.

Bishop said some of the employees will have the option of deciding whether to accept an early retirement. In the St. Louis area, 1,130 will be eligible for the early retirement option.

The early retirement option will be specifically for salaried employees.

"It will be for salaried employees whose age and years of service combine to be 70," said Bishop. He said the policy is different from the normal whereby an employee's age and years of service combine to be 80 for an early retirement.

The early retirement option will have a Dec. 1 deadline.

Monsanto has also hired an outside consultant to conduct seminars in order "to aid them in reaching their decision," said Bishop. Personal counseling will also be available to those who will be laid off.

Layoffs are also scheduled for about 950 employees at the company's corporate headquarters in the St. Louis County suburb of Creve Coeur.

Bishop would not speculate on whether there will be future layoffs because of the reorganization, but he did say "hopefully it's behind us... There are no present plans to do anything further."

Wilson moves to Trinity

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Staff writer

The Rev. Harold Wilson Sr. of Venice has transferred to the Trinity God in Christ Church, 800 Bissell St., Venice, where he is now serving as assistant pastor and church elder.

Previously, he was assistant pastor of New Hope Fellowship Church, Edwardsville, which serves the Alton and Edwardsville area.

New Hope Fellowship was the first black Assembly of God Church to be established in the northern section of the bi-state metropolitan area.

THE MINISTER was recently reordained as an elder in the Southeast Illinois Ecclesiastical Church of God in Christ.

Bishop L. N. Moore of East St. Louis conducted the ordination services at Mount Calvary Church in Washington Park. He was assisted by Bishop T. T. Rose, Springfield, who also was guest speaker.

Rev. Wilson was ordained a minister in the Illinois District of the Assemblies of God in services at Springfield in April 1983.

He is presently serving his second term as president of the Madison Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

REV. WILSON is also president of the Venice Consumers Utility Board, which he helped organize in February 1984 with the Rev. John Henry Williams.

The consumers' board was formed to inform Venice residents about their rights as utility customers and to be a vocal presence at public hearings on rate hikes.

A Madison County deputy sheriff for the past 12 years, Rev. Wilson is a member of the Venice Board of Park Commissioners and the Venice board of Fire and Police Commissioners.

He holds a master's degree in education with emphasis in counseling from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and received his bachelor's degree in administration of justice from McKendree College in Lebanon.

IN ADDITION to these degrees, the minister also has earned an associate degree in law enforcement from Belleville Area College.

Rev. Wilson joined the U. S. Army in 1965 and completed paratrooper training and schooling as a helicopter technician prior to being assigned to the 101st Airborne Division.

In the military, he served tours of duty in the Far East and Africa and, for a period of time, at the American Embassy at Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

He and his wife, the former Lois Collins, are the parents of three children: Harelyn, Shawndell and Harold Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Ybarra parents of 1st child

Mr. and Mrs. Rick (Debbie) Ybarra of Granite City became the parents of their first child, a girl, Oct. 22 at Oliver Anderson Hospital in Maryville.

The new arrival has been named Stephanie Nicole and weighed 7 pounds, 1½ ounces.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Salvador Ybarra and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Green, all of Granite City. Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Cox of Granite City and the great-great-grandmother is Mary Kimberlin of St. Louis.

Volunteers

TUTORS
To assist American adults as they learn reading and writing. The only qualification for tutoring is the willingness to volunteer a day or two each week. Training is provided. Anyone interested may contact the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center by calling 874-7792 and asking for Belva Ashford or Dr. Purdes.

VOLUNTEER HELP
Preschool volunteers are needed to work two to three hours a day. This is an excellent opportunity for someone who enjoys small children and is able to provide educational and recreational activities. Volunteers will gain knowledge in early childhood education, communicate effectively with families, and strengthen rapport among the various communities.

Persons interested in serving as a community facilitator for the Quad-City area should contact Amanda Randall at Project Head Start, 877-2097.

FRIEND TO YOUTH
Volunteers share two to three hours a week with a teenager. The friend provides recreational and educational activities along with guidance and support as a positive role model. Volunteers receive training to enhance their communication skills, knowledge of families and understanding of the difficulties surrounding adolescence. Anyone interested in befriending a youth in the Quad-City area may call Jan Bump at Central Baptist Family Services, 345-9644.

2 attend workshop on Retirement Accounts

Frances Preloger and Jennifer Dippel, Individual Retirement Account clerks at the American Heritage Bank of Granite City, attended an educational workshop for bank personnel Oct. 22 at Mount Vernon.

The workshop, sponsored by the Independent Community Banks in Illinois (ICBI), provided updates on rules, regulations and administrative procedures of IRAs. Headquartered in Springfield, ICBI is a statewide organization representing nearly 500 banks.

Varied programs ease disabilities

The Social Security disability program provides a foundation of support for disabled workers and their families, but it is only part of a network of resources that have emerged over the years to meet the needs of disabled people. These resources include federal, state and local governments, and private programs and services.

More than 90 percent of all workers are covered for Social Security disability benefits, a Social Security spokesman said this week.

Benefits are paid to workers and their dependents when the worker is unable to work for a year or more due to an illness or injury. Benefits are also paid to unmarried people disabled before age 22 when a parent is receiving Social Security retirement or disability checks, or dies, and to disabled widows and widowers of insured workers aged 50-60.

Other federal programs which help disabled persons include the supplemental security income (SSI) program (also administered by Social Security) which makes payments to blind or disabled persons with little income or resources.

The Veterans Administration provides a variety of services to people with service-connected disabilities. And workers compensation provides payments for work-related injuries and diseases. Medicare covers people who have been receiving Social Security disability benefits for 2 years or more.

State and local assistance programs for disabled persons vary from state to state, but they are usually based on need. Funding generally comes from federal and local sources.

Private sources include employer-sponsored disability insurance protection, individual disability insurance plans, charitable organizations, and personal resources. Though these sources are not generally thought of as programs for the disabled, they are counted as resources in public policy planning when needs of the disabled are considered.

Attention Federal Employees

GREAT BENEFITS COME IN THE NICEST PACKAGES

Group Health Plan does more than offer Federal employees the most comprehensive health plan available. We've got a dental plan second to none. In fact, we've got the best benefit package available to Federal employees this year.

Just consider:

We cover routine health care, hospitalizations and surgical fees at 100% and provide medication at a cost of only $3 per prescription. Plus you get free eye exams and refractions. GHP also pays for preventive dental exams and the cost of extractions and fillings, with only minimal co-payments.

And now GHP has seven locations to serve you — five sites in St. Louis, St. Louis County, and St. Charles County, and two sites in Illinois — Alton and Fairview Heights.

Remember, after you pay your premium, nearly everything else is on us.

Now, isn't that the nicest package of all?

See our new locations in Alton and Fairview Heights, Illinois and in Chesterfield and St. Peters, Missouri.

JUGGLER JONNY JAMES is featured in the Fires of London's "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame," a music-theater rendition of a medieval French legend in which a poor juggler offers his juggling act as a gift to a statue of the Virgin Mary. The Fires will perform at Edison Theater Nov. 19.

Chamber group presents Fires of London at Edison Theatre

The Fires of London, a chamber music/theater group, will perform at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 19, at Edison Theater, Edison, a variety theater which sponsors professional touring dance, music and theater companies, is located in the Mallinckrodt Center at Washington University in St. Louis.

The Fires of London, under the direction of Peter Maxwell Davies, is composed of six musicians who play, sing and act Maxwell Davies' dramatic musical scores. They have brought the music/theater genre to world attention and gained an international reputation through their appearances on four continents and their records, broadcasts and television appearances.

At Edison Theater, The Fires will present "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame" and "Eight Songs for a Mad King." "Le Jongleur" recounts the French medieval legend of a juggler who wanders into a monastery. The juggler (Jonny James) offers a statue of the Virgin Mary the only gift he can — a juggling act. The statue of Mary (violinist Madeline Mitchell) comes to life and accepts the juggler's gift with a sweet violin melody. The 45-minute piece will feature a local children's band.

In "Eight Songs for a Mad King," baritone Andrew Gallacher sings of the last days of the demented King George III of England. In his final days of madness, King George tries to teach his pet bullfinches to sing. The mad king's vocal score spans four octaves.

Tickets are $10 to the general public, $8 to senior citizens and $5 to students. For tickets, persons may call the Edison box office at 1-314-389-6521.

"Of One Accord," designed for children ages 9 and older, will feature various works exploring harmony. In addition to the musical meaning of harmony, the program investigates harmony between individuals with compositions about marriage and weddings.

Included in the concert are Smetana's Overture to "The Bartered Bride," Clarke's Trumpet Voluntary, Wedding Day at Troldhaugen by Grieg, "Rustic Wedding" Symphony by Goldmark and Mendelssohn's Wedding March from "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Tsung Yeh, Exxon/Arts Endowment conducting assistant for the St.

Louis Symphony, will conduct the program. A native of Shanghai, Yeh made his St. Louis subscription debut on Oct. 12.

"Of One Accord" and all concerts in the Symphony's Educational Concert series are open to the public. School groups are being especially encouraged to attend. Tickets for children and chaperones are $2.50 each. For additional information, persons may call the St. Louis Symphony Educational Concerts office, 1-314-533-2500, ext. 292.

Festival Of Trees:

Tree Upon Christmas Tree Will Aid Judevine Center In The Task Of Helping The Autistic

The spirit and glow of Christmas will enwrap Kiel Auditorium in its magic by the end of the month.

All the best things of Christmas will be in abundance - more than 100 gaily decorated trees will line the hall, song will resound through the waves and dancers will toe through the Nutcracker Suite.

But most of all, the three-day Festival of Trees will delight - and help - kids.

All the proceeds of the fest go to the Judevine Center for Autistic Children for research and scholarships. The center is hosting the festival, its second one, from Nov. 29 through Dec. 1.

"The Festival of Trees is a great way to celebrate the beginning of the holiday season by presenting a central, people-oriented, non-commercial event where families and friends can come together and revel in the wonderment of the season," says

Pat Coffey, chairman of the event. "We believe the festival is on its way to becoming the biggest civic event in St. Louis, second only to the V.P. Fair."

The trees are decorated and donated by businesses, community organizations and individuals. They will be for sale, but will remain on display throughout the festival.

In keeping with the holiday spirit, the Metropolitan Ballet will perform the Nutcracker Suite. The Madrigal Singers, the Chamber Chorus, the West Port Players and Ryan Bowman, the National Star Search finalist, will add to the merriment.

Gingerbread houses, centerpieces, wreaths, and a modular railroad set up by the McDonnell Douglas Railroad Club N-TRAK also will be on display. Children will have a chance to make ornaments at the Christmas Kaleidoscope and decorate the "children's trees" if they want.

And bigger kids and adults can shop in the Christmas Galleria for a variety of handmade gifts. Crafts people will demonstrate their skill.

Tickets to the festival are $3 for adults and $1.50 for children, with special $1-off coupons at Kroger Stores. The festival will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Nov. 29 and 30 and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Dec. 1.

St. Louis can participate in another way. There are still some tickets available to the gala preview party at 6 p.m. Nov. 26 at Kiel Exposition Hall.

Tickets for the party are $85 per person and include a buffet, entertainment and an auction of a few of the most spectacular trees.

Already on the auction block are a tree decorated with Victorian china dolls by Price Waterhouse and Boyd's and a Marcel Schwandner's glass tree adorned with $30,000 worth of jewelry and silver donated by Eleanor Rosenblum.

Other trees slated for the auction have been donated by Kroger, KMOX, St. Louis University Medical Center and James Trogolo.

Both events are expected to raise $100,000 for the Judevine Center.

For information or tickets to gala, call 849-4440. A few of the underwriters of the festival are Kroger, Joe Simpkins, David Kay, Ace Moving and William Bidwell.

From the glazed beauty of a China doll to a tentative touch from Eddie Nappier, above, trees ready for the Judevine Center's Festival of Trees project the warmth of the Christmas season. But it takes more than good cheer to make something like the festival bring in as much as $100,000 for the center. Clockwise in the pictures below, Jan Albus helps dancer Pat Whiteside get ready for the festival while Mary Harris, Jacque Albus and Lera Crady watch; little Eddie Nappier helps Judevine director Lois Blackwell, underwriter Joe Simpkins, Judevine board member Rick Berger and coordinator Sue Nappier show how they hope the checks will rain down on the center; Marcel and Kim Schwandner, Leigh Grimm, Lilly Karsten, and Marlene Ebel show off some of the crafts that will be available at the festival; and underwriter David Kay basks in the warmth of a Christmas tree with Amanda Nappier, event chairwoman Pat Coffey, Kate Munsch and Gene Fanker.

Low cholesterol diets for '80's

"Wellness," low cholesterol diets, reduced sodium diets, stress elimination and exercise, exercise, exercise are the buzz-words of the health-conscious '80s. Americans are jogging, cycling and swimming their way toward unprecedented fitness.

Health professionals are exhilarated. Their warning about how to prevent such ailments as diabetes, cardiovascular disease and hypertension (high blood pressure) have received robust response.

While genetics play a significant role in determining physical development, Angel and Kelley contend that, over time, their measurements can be used to infer certain aspects of the health and nutrition of past generations. "No one has ever worked with skull-base height before," Angel says of this measure of the area that forms the support structure for the skull on the spinal column.

Bone growth, for example, depends in part on vitamin D and the individual's protein intake. If these or other nutrients are lacking, bone in the skull base is inhibited from growing upward against gravity.

Decreases measured in pelvic depth, too, can be blamed on nutritional deficiencies. In severe cases, lack of ultraviolet light — sunlight — necessary for the body's production of vitamin D can cause a bone deformation known as rickets.

BONES INDICATE the nutritional health of our American ancestors according to Dr. Lawrence J. Kelly (right).

In the five-generation study, the Smithsonian scientists have documented an increase in these measurements and an increase in bone growth as calculated for overall stature. "All three" — skull-base height, pelvic depth and stature — "improve with better nutrition," Angel says.

Over this 125-year period, he notes, technological developments such as refrigeration made fresh fruit and vegetables available to more people year-round; vitamin supplements became more attainable, and the American passion for sunbaths — which helped prevent rickets, among other benefits — embedded itself in the national culture, becoming closely associated with ideas about sex appeal and healthful appearance.

'Holiday Blues' common during Family Festival

Do you dread the holiday season? Is it usually an unhappy time for you? Chances are you might be experiencing "Holiday Blues."

"Holiday Blues" comes in many forms. Some of these forms are much like the following scenarios. A child walks into the school nurse's office in December and says, "I have a stomach ache. When the nurse gently talks with her, the child starts to cry and says Christmas is not fun like it is supposed to be."

A visiting nurse makes her regular call on a senior citizen client a few days after Christmas and finds the man in tears and not eating properly. He tells her he had Christmas with his children but there had been too much activity for him. He had looked forward to Christmas and now it was over.

In all of these cases, the nurses' clients could be experiencing "Holiday Blues."

"Holiday Blues" is considered by some to be a temporary depression, lasting a month or six weeks at the holiday season. Other mental health professionals consider "Holiday Blues" to be a reaction to stress, rather than a true depression.

Stress can be defined as any change to which a person must adjust. It can be either positive, such as a new job or new baby, or negative, such as a loss or an illness. People change their lifestyles, spending habits, eating habits, socializing habits, and sleeping habits during the holiday season. These are all great "stressors" and could cause anxiety, depression, hopelessness, irritability, fatigue, and even physical illness.

However, stress related to changes in habits is not the only stress present during the holidays. There is also stress connected with having lost a close relative or friend during the previous year and facing the festive holidays without that person.

Another stress is caused by poor planning and overly great expectations of what the holidays ought to include.

In many cases, people experiencing the blues decide to "wait it out" until after the holidays and do not seek mental health help. This might be especially true when "Holiday Blues" happen to someone year after year and the person knows that no matter how miserable he or she feels — he or she will get better after the holidays.

The group will be led by two mental health nurses and will meet at the Mid America Bank in Fairview Heights. All three meetings are from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Since this is being offered as a community service by the Nurses' Association, the minimal fee of $5 is being charged for all three sessions. Reservations can be made by calling the SIUE School of Nursing, 692-3956.

Lower back pain most common complaint

By DR. CHARLES KING JR.

One of the most common conditions physicians face on a daily basis is low back pain.

It is estimated 80 percent of the total population will suffer from severe back pain sometime in their life. In an industrial-based society such as ours, that figure could be slightly higher.

Back problems are the leading cause of disability and the second leading cause of hospitalization next to pregnancy. With the rising cost of health care and insurance premiums, new solutions must be found to counter this ever-increasing problem.

By definition, low back pain encompasses a broad field. A large number of patients who present themselves with buttock pain or leg pain and numbness can be found to suffer from conditions originating in the low back. The pain is often aggravated by movement, prolonged sitting or even coughing.

The most commonly injured structure in the low back is the intervertebral disc. The disc is a ligamentous structure that joins the individual vertebrae together. It allows flexibility and also functions as a shock absorber.

When the discs are strained by abnormal stress or excessive motion, their gelatinous center can escape through torn or strained fibers and compress nerve roots, causing changes in sensation or pain along the path of the nerve.

Studies have shown that the most damaging movements to the disc structures in the low back are those most commonly used in everyday situations. When a person bends at the waist to pick up an object, the majority of the stress is placed on the low back and its discs.

The most frequent account, given by patients through their office of their mishap, involves lifting objects under 10 pounds. We can see it's not always what you lift, but how it's done that puts an individual in a damaging situation.

The majority of mishaps, which occur at home or on job sites, can be avoided if proper lifting is taught and becomes habitual. By beginning the education process before injuries occur, the majority of these conditions can be prevented.

Local industry should institute programs to educate workers as a regular part of new employee indoctrination and as a part of the rehabilitation program for those who have suffered from back pain.

Several back schools have been set up by major industries across the country. In one such program, Southern Pacific Transportation instructed its 39,000 employees in back care and protective body mechanics. The following year, there was a 22 percent decrease in back injuries and a 43 percent decrease in lost time by employees, resulting in a savings of over $1 million for the company.

Trips to nearby historic towns are a pleasant end to autumn

Beware. The frenzied holiday rush that occurs annually in November and December is almost here.

Now is the time to put the family in the station wagon and enjoy a leisurely Saturday or Sunday trip to nearby historic communities that are just a few hours from the metropolitan area offer many delightful ways to spend an afternoon.

Alton, Ill. a mecca for antique collectors, beckons with a treasure of fascinating shops.

Civic leaders in Alton recently announced their intentions to attract antique collectors from Missouri to the Illinois river town.

The Alton Antique Dealers Association engaged a public relations agency to coordinate a regional publicity drive to promote the shops along Broadway and Market Street.

Jim Mark, president of the association, said the group felt a need to provide greater regional exposure to the antiques area, known as The Landing.

"Antique lovers across the river are often dissuaded from coming to Alton because they're not sure the experience will justify the travel distance," Mark said. "We want them to know there are over 40 antique and specialty shops on The Landing, with enough variety to satisfy every collector's taste, whether it be furniture, glassware, jewelry, primitives or woodcrafts."

Visitors can combine their visit to The Landing with a trip down the Great River Road, which features historic mansions and communities.

Several communities in Missouri have scheduled fall events that should please many people.

In Hannibal, the observance of Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain) 150th birthday ends Nov. 30. Visitors can call the Hannibal Chamber of Commerce, (314) 221-1101, for a schedule of November birthday events.

A folk life festival will be held Nov. 2-3. Craftsmen sell and exhibit their wares during the festival, which is held in Hannibal's historic district on Hill Street.

History buffs can visit the restored homes and museums, which are open each day except Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Hannibal is about 100 miles north of St. Louis. Scenic Hwy. 79 north winds along the river and the bluffs offer a dazzling array of autumn color. A shorter route alternative is Hwy. 61 north.

Craft Fair and antique lovers might enjoy a shorter trip to St. Charles.

The Marten Becker House, 837

First Capitol Drive, will host a craft fair Nov. 1-3. Call Jean Baggerman at 946-7865.

Antique collectors might enjoy the Depression Glass Show at Stegion's Restaurant and Convention Center Nov. 2-3. Stegion's is at 1-70 and Fifth Street. Call 946-6860.

Local artists will exhibit their creations at the 20th Annual Juried Art Show, 324 S. Main St. on Nov. 3-27. The show is sponsored by the Artists' Guild. Exhibit hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. (See TRIP, Page 3B)

Three authentic Hawaiian hula dancers will be among the highlights of the Travel Expo '85 Gateway To Your Dreams which will be the weekend of Nov. 22-24.

The grand ballroom of the Omni International Hotel in the renovated St. Louis Union Station will be the site of the three-day event.

Travel Expo '85 is sponsored by the Suburban Journals of Greater St. Louis.

Two of Oahu's top attractions, Waimea Falls Park and Sea Life Park, along with the Hawaii Visitors Bureau, are sponsoring the trio of dancers. Western Air Lines is furnishing transportation and the Sheraton Downtown Hotel will accommodate the guests.

Besides performing ancient and modern hulas, the dancers will demonstrate Hawaiian crafts such as lei making, lei skirt weaving and ancient island games like konane and hu.

The three dancers are Pilihi Lani, Shellee Kauliani Akana-Ancog and Debra Kapoli Kahue.

Pilihi has been Waimea Falls Park's hula teacher since 1971. She began formal hula training at age three. She has composed chants which she sings during her performances.

Shellee and Debra have been performing hulas most of their lives. Shellee specializes in researching the history of chants and hulas and is currently composing a chant.

Debra specializes in Hawaiian crafts.

DOT plans to enforce ban on air-fare rebates for international travel

The Department of Transportation, in a letter to the American Society of Travel Agents said that it will enforce the law prohibiting rebating of international air fares.

The department responded to a letter from society requesting the department either enforce or repeal the law that prohibits international rebating of air fares. The society contended that current law mandates that anyone who offers or gives rebates on international tickets is guilty of a misdemeanor and can be fined up to $5,000 for each offense.

The department said "rebating on international air fares is illegal." Francis H. Goranin, senior vice chairman for the Society of Travel Agents, said he was pleased with the response from the department.

"We're glad that the (Department of Transportation) has decided to announce publicly its intention to enforce the current law." Letters should be addressed to: Office of the Secretary, U.S. Department of Transportation, Washington, D.C. 20290.

Northwest Orient offers new travel incentive plan

Northwest Orient Airlines is conducting a new travel incentive plan that offers free domestic tickets and rental car service for trans-Atlantic passengers flying between Oct. 8, 1985, and March 31, 1986.

Under the terms of the latest in a series of promotions, Northwest will give a free round-trip ticket for travel in the lower 48 states to first class and executive class passengers who fly round-trip to Northwest's trans-Atlantic destinations during the promotion period.

Northwest Orient offers Boeing 747 service to London, Frankfurt, Oslo, Stockholm, Copenhagen, Shannon, Ireland and Glasgow, Scotland.

Economy class and advance purchase excursion fare travelers flying round-trip to Northwest's trans-Atlantic destinations will receive a free ticket for a companion when they fly in the continental United States.

The trans-Atlantic travelers may also receive free use of an Avis Rent A Car for a week, regardless of what class of service flown. The rental car will be available to the travelers either in Europe on the day of their arrival or anytime they wish through 1986 in Arizona, California or Florida.

"This offer is unique in that it provides, essentially, two tickets for the price of one," said T.J. Koors, executive vice president for marketing and sales. "It also allows business travelers the choice of using the rental car while they are in Europe or during a subsequent trip to the sun belt. People traveling in parties of two, if each possesses an earned Avis certificate, will receive free one week's use of a Chevy Chevette, Opel Corsa or similar type Avis vehicle. Avis will charge $50 for people travelling alone with one certificate."

To use the car in Europe, plane tickets must be purchased and the rental car must be booked 21 days in advance. An Avis certificate, which will be sent to passengers, must be presented on the day of arrival along with the original stamped Northwest boarding pass.

To use the rental car during U.S. sun country travel, copies of the round-trip transatlantic ticket and the original boarding pass should be sent to Northwest Orient. A certificate will then be issued for an Avis Rent A Car in any Northwest Orient city in Arizona, California or Florida.

Christmas crafts will be for sale at the Mark Twain Shopping Center, 1355 S. Fifth St., Nov. 15-17. The craft show will be open during mall hours.

All of the shops in the historic district are open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Families looking for a different portrait to include in this season's Christmas cards might consider stopping by the Crow's Nest while visiting St. Charles. An antique sleigh with festive decorations, will be displayed at the Crow's Nest courtyard, 524 S. Main, on Nov. 29, 30 and Dec. 1. Visitors can bring a camera and have photos taken in the sleigh for $1.

For folks who have seen enough arts and craft exhibits, consider a visit to Hermann, Mo. The Stonhill and Hermann wineries offer tours from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and visitors can buy a bottle of wine for the Thanksgiving table.

The Bias Vineyard in Berger, Mo. also is open to the public. Berger is eight miles east of Hermann on Hwy. 100.

The scenic route to Hermann is Hwy. 100 west, but the quaint German town is accessible from I-44 west.

A little pampering has never hurt anyone. In nearby Washington, Mo., two bed and breakfast inns provide a charming respite, if only for a weekend.

The seven-room Zachariah Foss House, built in the middle 1800s by New Englander Zachariah Foss and his wife, Amelia Ann, is furnished with 19th century antiques.

Proprietors Joy and Sunny Drevell offer the entire home to visitors for overnight or weekend lodging. Guests can enjoy the romantic atmosphere of the Foss house for $75 a night on weekdays and $85 per night Friday through Sunday.

A country style breakfast, featuring home made popovers, jams and jellies, fresh eggs and hickory bacon, is a welcome eye opener.

For more information on the Foss House, call 239-6499 or 938-4966.

The Schwegman House is a 122-year-old Georgian style brick home owned by George Bocklage and associates. The house is equipped with a spacious parlor and breakfast room decorated with elegant lace curtains and polished individual tables.

A night's stay at the inn varies from $50 for a large third story room to $35 for a smaller first floor room.

Price of the room includes a continental breakfast with freshly ground coffees and exotic teas, a variety of cheeses, home made breads and jams and a selection of fruit.

The home's original owner, John Schwegman, ran a flour mill in Washington in the late 1800s.

For more information about the inn, write Schwegman House, 438 W. Front St., Washington, Mo. 63090.

There are many places in Missouri and Illinois suitable for one-day or weekend get aways. These are just a few.

Royal Caribbean Line Cuts Cruise Fares

Royal Caribbean Cruise Line has lowered its third/forth-person air/sea and "cruise only" fares effective Oct. 5, 1985 in order to strengthen its competitive position in the family travel market.

The new third/forth-person all-inclusive air/sea fare is $495 per person for seven and eight-day Caribbean cruises and for seven-day New York/Bermuda cruises, $695 for 10-day Caribbean cruises and $895 for 14-day Caribbean cruises.

The Western Caribbean aboard Song of Norway would pay a total of $340 (Category K, Value Season) - an average of $860 per person.

These new fares are in effect through 1986 and apply to all Royal Caribbean cruises except holiday sailings and the SunVenture cruise program (one-week segments of a full 14-day Sun Viking cruise), regardless of seasonal variations in double occupancy tariffs.

If the family can make its own way to Miami, the total "cruise only" price is $240, or just $610 per person.

These new third/forth-person air/sea fares are available from all Royal Caribbean air/sea gateways in the Continental U.S. and Eastern Canada and include roundtrip air transportation to the port of embarkation, all ground transfers and port taxes.

"These new fares provide a significant incentive for family vacationers to include a Royal Caribbean cruise in their vacation planning considerations," said Rod McLeon, senior vice president, sales and marketing for the line.

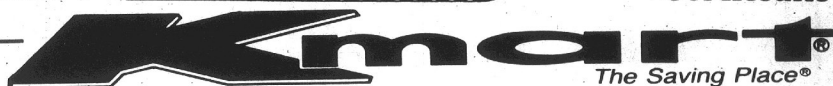

Families not requiring roundtrip air transportation may deduct the appropriate "cruise only" transportation allowance from the third/forth-person air/sea fares as well as the double occupancy air/sea fares for the cruise program selected. This allowance will be $250 per person for Caribbean-bound passengers and $200 per person for New York/Bermuda passengers.

McLeon said these new fares may also be used by groups of friends willing to share a stateroom in exchange for a considerable savings in individual fares.

The cost-saving benefit offered by these new fares is significant for families considering a cruise vacation. For example, a family of four traveling from Los Angeles, Chicago or New York for a 7-day air/sea vacation cruise to Royal Caribbean Cruise Line's fleet - Song of America, Song of Norway, Nordic Prince and Sun Viking - offers cruises to the Bahamas, the Caribbean and Mexico year-round from Miami and 7-day cruises from New York to Bermuda during the spring and summer seasons.

Country crafts brought to the big city

Cervantes Convention Center will become Silver Dollar City's "old-time crafts village" Nov. 8 to 10. The setting is to be reminiscent of the attraction during its fall crafts festival, except that there will be more artisans at work.

"Never before," said Silver Dollar City official Bill White, "have we taken anything approaching the scope of this show on the road."

"The wares these folks produce while you stand and watch are those you won't find anywhere else. Originality is what makes the difference."

While the craft demonstrations are a show unto themselves, continuous stage entertainment from Silver Dollar City also will be a highlight. The "Washboard Leo" trio and the Horse Creek band will perform, along with the River Rat Rowdies Dixieland combo, minstrel Danny Eakin, storyteller Judy Young and the Silver Dollar City medicine show. Featured also, will be the Scartaglen group with Scotch and Irish specialties, and Marshal Elmer Wallace, who will be swearing in "deputies" among the youngsters who attend.

Hours are Friday, Nov. 8, noon to 10 p.m.; Saturday, Nov. 9, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.; and Sunday, Nov. 10, noon to 6 p.m. Children under 12 are to be admitted free with an accompanying adult. Adult admission is $4.25, tax included. A special price for senior citizens, $2.25, tax included, will prevail Friday only.

Swissair, Kloten Airport rated tops

Swissair has been voted the best airline, worldwide, and Zurich's Kloten Airport was acclaimed the third best airport in a survey conducted by the United Kingdom-based Business Traveller magazine.

This is the second consecutive year that Swissair was recognized by Business Traveller as the world's best airline and the third such award the company has received in 1985. The Business Traveller survey was conducted by the London-based firm of Drakeford Survey Research Limited.

Of the 52 international airlines analyzed in this year's survey the top four, Swissair, Singapore Airlines, British Airways and Cathay Pacific, remained in the same positions as in 1984.

Business travellers from more than 50 countries rated Swissair and its competitors in terms of cabin staff, comfort, punctuality, meals, reliability and scheduling. Readers who were asked which aspect of the total airline product they considered of greatest importance listed cabin staff first, followed by food, safety, route network and scheduling in descending order of priority.

Zurich's Kloten Airport was voted third best worldwide after Amsterdam's Schiphol Airport and Changi Airport in Singapore as well as second best in Europe. The awards were presented by the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Lian Traill, in a ceremony at the Mansion House in London Sept. 17.

Retirement LIVING

In this fast moving world we live in, I think that most of us sometimes in our working years, dream of a cabin in a woods or a cottage near the river, just as the place to retire. Sounds good till the roof leaks, or the road to the cabin is covered with snow, plus a dozen other problems.

Now, there is a place, almost in your backyard; a cottage with all the modern conveniences, plus no repainting, plenty of water, etc. Only minutes away from a "doctor, hospital, or shopping center."

This may sound like Heaven on Earth, yes, but it's Eden Village. It's just what the doctor ordered, if you want to enjoy your retirement. I think this is one of the finest happenings in Edwardsville since T.V.

I'm a resident since November 1977

Holiday travel program offered for seniors

The holiday season will soon arrive and Southwest Airlines once again will present the "Home For The Holidays" program for deserving senior citizens.

For the sixth consecutive year, Southwest will afford a select group of senior citizens, who might otherwise not be able to travel, an opportunity to be with friends and relatives during the festive season when home and family are so meaningful.

In the "Home For The Holidays" program, Southwest provides complimentary airline transportation within the 25-city system for a set number of senior citizens in each market.

In St. Louis, the Cardinal Ritter Institute is working with Southwest to implement the program and designate 25 individuals who will be awarded the holiday trip presents.

To qualify, individuals must be 60 years of age or older and on a fixed income. A single person or a married couple can be awarded a trip. A married couple represents two trips.

For more information about qualifying for this holiday treat contact: Thomas Comer, Cardinal Ritter Institute, 4483 Lindell Blvd., St. Louis, 63108, (314) 652-3600.

German shepherds sought as State Police dogs

The Illinois State Police are implementing a canine program and are looking for family-type male or female German shepherd dogs.

These dogs must be able to tolerate strange people moving around them while they work, and must be a good representative of the German shepherd breed — well marked in color, ears erect, good teeth and eyes, free of hip dysplasia, outgoing and friendly temperament, courageous, no fear of unusual noises, with a high level of curiosity. Also, these dogs will have to be excellent retrievers of objects thrown by their handlers, since this will be their reward for doing a good job.

A spokesman said, "If you feel your dog may meet the above qualifications and are interested in donating your German shepherd to a lifetime of service to one of the best canine units in the nation, contact the Illinois State Police, 217/782-7478.

There is no trick to satisfying ravenous appetites with Hearty Burger Joes. They require little planning and are ready in 15 minutes. A can of pork and beans stretches one pound of hamburger into 6 to 8 generous servings. An envelope of sloppy joe seasoning mix contributes the spicy flavor blend. ### Hearty burger Joes

- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1 envelope (1 1/2 oz.) sloppy Joe seasoning mix
- 1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
- 1 cup water
- 1 can (8 oz.) pork and beans
- 6 slices process American cheese, diced
- 6 to 8 crusty rolls

Pan-fry in small amount of oil until golden brown on both sides.

Serve on rolls with mustard and pickles.

Makes 6 servings.

Serve cold punch

Punch will lose its "punch" if not served very cold or very hot.

When serving cold punches, chill all the ingredients before mixing in a non-metallic container. Add carbonated beverages just before serving; mix only enough to blend, so the carbonation is not lost.

For a special decorative touch, serve punch in sugar-frosted glasses or cups. Dip rim of each glass in lemon, lime or orange juice, then in sugar. Chill to harden.

Dietitian draws conclusions from American's dining habits

Alisa Minear, who holds a master's degree and is a registered dietitian, makes it her business to feed people right. Acting as a dietitian for outpatients at Scripps Clinic in La Jolla, Calif., she focuses on patient weight control, eating disorders and premenstrual syndrome.

When presented with a list of 50 dinner menus from suburban families and workers, Minear interpreted what she thought were the pluses (few) and minuses (the majority) of the meals, and then offered suggestions for means to healthier eating.

Given the list of meals, which resulted from informal surveying in an office and a neighborhood, the dietitian drew the following conclusions:

— Protein: In general, most dinners are consuming adequate amounts of protein in the form of meat, fish, poultry, beans, tofu and cheese.

— Fat: Fifty percent of those surveyed had high fat intakes, due to the amount of fried foods, salad dressings and other foods high in fat content.

— Calcium: "Very little milk was drunk by most people — 70 percent of the meals considered were low — even when there were children in the family," said Minear. Milk and dairy foods make up about 75 percent of the possible calcium intake in the American diet. "And it is very difficult to meet calcium needs without dairy products. Calcium supplements are OK, but calcium is better assimilated by the body through natural foods. Including milk or yogurt with the meal is a natural method to get that calcium level up. Cheese is a good

"When presented with a list of 50 dinner menus from suburban families and workers, Alisa Minear interpreted what she thought were the pluses and minuses of the meals.

source, too, but it's 80 percent fat, so caution should be taken there."

What about the type of milk to meet calcium levels? "It's fine for kids to drink non-fat or low-fat milk, and it is certainly the same for adults. The calcium content (in whole milk and low-fat or non-fat) is the same, but whole milk just has extra fat not needed by the body."

— Sugars: Thirty percent of those questioned had eaten some sort of concentrated sugar, mostly in the form of a dessert — ice cream, cake, cookies. "That looks very good on paper," noted Minear, "but how many of those same people turned to a sugar-based sweet later in the evening while watching TV?" The dietary specialist continued, "If people are going to eat sugar, it's better to do so with a meal, rather than separately. The protein and complex carbohydrates within a meal would decrease the rate of absorption of sugar. Also, the level of dental cavities will decrease when sugar is ingested with other foods."

Minear said she has observed a move away from including dessert with every meal. "Desserts should not be part of the daily diet. The trend moving away from desserts is a good one for the public health."

Complex carbohydrates: Fifty percent of the people questioned registered low in their consumption of complex carbohydrates. In general, few people ate whole grains; dark, leafy or yellow vegetables, or legumes (peas, dried beans, etc.). Considering the fact that 60 percent of total daily consumption should consist of foods in the complex carbohydrate category, Minear calculates that most of those questioned listed only "about half as much complex carbohydrates as they really need."

— Vitamin C: Of the meals analyzed, 75 percent were low in vitamin C. "The recommended daily amount for vitamin C is 60 milligrams — that's a bit more than one small orange. Perhaps many of the diners had acquired their intake by drinking orange juice at breakfast," said Minear. By eating citrus fruits or dark green or yellow vegetables or tomatoes, the vitamin C would increase dramatically.

— Iron: "Because many people have cut down on red meats, 90 percent of the meals were deficient in iron," said Minear. "The USDA (the government's recommended daily allowance) for iron is 18 milligrams per day. One 3½-ounce serving of chicken yields 1.3 milligrams of iron; a normal 4-ounce serving of flank steak will give about one-third the daily requirements."

Apple juice is a good replacement for sugar syrups

Can fruit delights

Canning or freezing fruits in low calorie syrups, consisting of apple juice, a low calorie sugar substitute, and ascorbic acid can yield a highly acceptable reduced-calorie product.

Low calorie pears

2½ lbs. firm ripe pears (about 8 medium pears)
2 qts. water
1 tsp. plus 1 tsp. ascorbic acid powder
1 tsp. (9 packets) saccharine based sugar substitute
1 qt. unsweetened apple juice

Wash pears thoroughly.
In a large bowl, prepare ascorbic acid solution by combining water with 1 tablespoon of ascorbic acid. Set aside.

In a 1½ quart saucepan, dissolve sweetener in apple juice. Boil 5 minutes. Keep hot.
Pare fruit with vegetable peeler, then halve and core using a melon baller or round measuring spoon and drop into ascorbic acid solution.

Drain and pack pears, cut side down, into four hot, sterilized 1 pint mason jars.

Add remaining teaspoon of ascorbic acid to hot syrup and stir to combine.

Pour syrup over pears to cover, leaving ½-inch head space. Seal following manufacturer's directions.

Process 25 minutes in boiling water bath.

Frozen apples

1 tbsp. (9 packets) saccharine based sugar substitute
1 qt. unsweetened apple juice
2½ lb. apples, free of blemishes (about 7 medium apples)
2 qts. water
1 tsp. plus 1 tsp. ascorbic acid powder

In a 1½ quart saucepan, dissolve sweetener in apple juice and boil 5 minutes. Syrup may be made a day ahead and chilled at this point. Otherwise, cook apple juice and proceed.

Wash apples thoroughly.
In large bowl, prepare ascorbic acid solution by combining water with one tablespoon of ascorbic acid. Set aside.

Pare fruit, then core, cut into quarters or slices. Drop into ascorbic acid solution.

Drain and pack fruit into four moisture-vapor-resistant pint-sized freezer containers.

Add remaining teaspoon ascorbic acid to cooled syrup and stir to combine. Pour syrup over apples to cover, leaving ½-inch head space, seal and freeze.

Drug awareness film in Venice

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Staff writer

VENICE — A drug awareness film designed to show parents and other interested adults the dangers of drug use — and symptoms and behavioral patterns that can alert parents to this hazard — will be presented at 10 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 9, at the Venice Senior Community Center, Klein and Brown streets.

The film will be shown in conjunction with a meeting of the Venice Neighborhood Watch group. Police Sgt. Birl Reed, Watch liaison with the Venice Police Department, will present the film and answer questions.

Granite City Parks opens seasonal ice skating rink

GRANITE CITY — The Park District has opened the ice skating rink for public sessions.

Schedules and costs will remain the same as the past two years.

Public sessions will be held Thursdays through Saturdays from 7 until 9:30 p.m., Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 1 until 3:30, and initially was organized as Crime Blockers. It was renamed in January to conform to a national program with a larger-scope program that includes Crime Blockers and Operation Identification.

Key leaders in the citizens' involvement program are Carolyn "Pam" Wilson, Dorothy Griggs and Lois Wilson. The three women were primarily responsible for its formation.

More than 500 Venice residents had enrolled in the Neighborhood Watch program by late 1984 and early this year. Fifty block captains also were assigned throughout the city.

Metal signs denoting Venice as a are placed near the city's access routes.

Burglaries dropped significantly after the organization was formed, according to Venice Police Chief Farris Smith.

Calls from watch members, many of whom have been schooled in identification and observation, are given priority when received by the police department.

Further training meetings are planned in the fall and winter months.

Parents who are not members of the Neighborhood Watch are being invited to attend Saturday's program, Sgt. Reed said.

children's passes are $15 and individual adult passes are $25. Book tickets contain 10 tickets per book and the cost is $7 for children and $10 for adults. All of these group plans are for residents with ID cards only and are available at the ice rink now, according to the rink manager, 877-2549.

Ticket prices for residents with a valid park ID are 75 cents for children through high school and $1.30 for adults. Prices for non-residents are $1.30 for children through high school and $2 for adults.

Webster School costumes judged

Webster School was not a place for the faint-hearted on Halloween. Students at the school dressed in special costumes for the school's Halloween party.

Costumes were judged in three categories.

First grader Amanda McCoy's clown outfit was judged the best overall. Second grader Chris Jones had the scariest monster outfit, and kindergartner Angel Lindsey's costume was judged the most original; she dressed as a trash bag.

Representatives from each class earned awards.

The most original costumes were those of: kindergarten, Susan Hayes and Angel Lindsey; first grade, Chrystal Petrillo and Niki Roberts; second grade, Jason Williams and Ahn Walker; third grade, Joe Frazier and Bobby Madewell; fourth grade, Daniel Kitzer and George Shank; fifth grade, Sheila Clements and Danielle Williams; and sixth grade, Greg Taylor and June Jones.

The best costumes were worn by: kindergarten, Keith Hopke and Adam Dumnavent; first grade, Sharron Gibson and Amanda McCoy; second, Brad Payne and Jennifer Watts; third, Buddy Puhse and Tawny Gracey; fourth, Kim Briley and Joe Doggett; fifth, Tonya Palmer and Jason Ivie; and sixth grade, Adam Fogle and Billy Schneede.

Teachers thought the scariest costumes were worn by: kindergarten, Desirae Langley and Jessica Williams; first grade, Billy Nall and Eddie Sturgeon; second grade, Chris Jones and Matt Williams; third grade, Richard Hailey and Charles Warmark; fourth grade, Sean Lewis and Robert Brooksher; fifth, Billy Brown and William Smith; and sixth grade, Robert Russell and Shawn Howland.

Six Flags helps students develop skill

Six Flags Over Mid-America is helping students develop a lifetime skill—reading.

Area teachers this month will receive free of charge the Read to Succeed educational program. All materials will include use of Looney Tunes characters, with new art provided by Chuck Jones, retired Looney Tunes art director and creator of Road Runner and Wile E. Coyote.

Read to Succeed is part of a nationwide effort coordinated through Six Flags to parks and attractions. The program has been developed with the help of education specialists and the support of an honorary advisory council whose members include Reading Is Fundamental, International Reading Association, National Association of Black School Educators, National Catholic Educational Association and others.

"Read to Succeed focuses on independent or recreational reading because teachers have told us they need materials in that area," said Six Flags Over Mid-America Vice-President and General Manager Jim Wintrobe.

Six Flags kicked off its commitment to independent reading last month with a weekend "Bring a Book" celebration. Children who took books to Six Flags were awarded free admission. Over 7,000 books were collected and are being donated to schools, libraries, hospitals and other institutions.

"We want to help teachers battle an increase in illiteracy that has caused America to be ranked 49th in literacy among 158 members of the United Nations," Wintrobe said. "Many experts consider the root of the problem to be the lack of reading children do outside the classroom."

"The program seeks to raise students' interest in reading as a fun pastime and, in the long run, can raise their reading proficiency."

At. St. Elizabeth's

Christina Clutts, nurse

KINDERGARTEN pupils at seven area schools have attended 14 clinics, and more are planned. Registered nurses from St. Elizabeth Medical Center's emergency room conducted the free clinics along with Granite City emergency medical technicians, paramedics and police. Sites were Maryville, Niedringhaus, Mitchell, Frohardt, Wilson, St. Elizabeth and Sacred Heart.

Goal is to help educate children about emergencies and ease their fears about such things as getting stitches, being bandaged or riding in the back of an ambulance. After the youngsters viewed a 16-slide presentation, they had a chance to have their blood pressure taken, listen to their own heartbeat and have a bandage applied to part of their body. Outside the classroom, they got a first-hand look at the inside of an ambulance.

PSCSA named to aid search for new university chancellor

The Presidential Search Consultation Service of the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges has been selected as the consultant to aid Southern Illinois University's Board of Trustees in its search for a new SIU system chancellor.

SIU Trustee Ivan A. Elliott Jr. of Carmi announced the selection Oct. 30. He was named Oct. 10 by Board Chairman Harris Rowe to pick out a search consultant.

The search is to find a replacement for Chancellor Kenneth A. Shaw, who becomes president of the 26-campus University of Wisconsin system Feb. 1.

Applications for the job will be taken until Dec. 1, with a field of four to six finalists to be named shortly after Jan. 1. Rowe said he hopes a choice can be made by Feb. 1.

The board hired the same consulting firm to help last year in a five-year review of the SIU system and of Shaw's performance. Elliott said fees for the consulting effort are expected to be about $15,000 plus expenses. Ronald Stead, director of the service, and Shirley Chater, senior associate, will be the firm's principal representatives for the search.

Stead is to be at the SIU board's meeting Nov. 14 in Edwardsville to discuss timetables and begin mapping search procedures.

Business

Business

"Thus far, Greathouse says, her business has been very successful. "I already have the whole month of November booked for parties," she said. "I think the business has been successful because the items are well-made and the prices are reasonable."

THE PARTIES, like Tupperware, feature a short presentation about the items for sale, and games are played by the guests. Prizes are awarded to game winners and the hostess is given a gift for having the party.

In the future, she plans to have bridal shower parties and mother-of-the-bride parties, where guests may purchase items that have already been selected by the guest of honor.

"There are a lot of possibilities for parties I still haven't explored," Greathouse said. "I hope someday to expand and have other people conducting parties for me."

Persons wishing to book Country Peddler parties are calling her at 931-6124.

Bucks blank Stars in finals

By GREGG OCHOA
Executive Sports Editor

GODFREY - The soccer machine known as Lewis and Clark Community College cranked out yet another win this season.

The victim was Granite City Center. The Stars were stung early and dropped a 4-0 decision in the finals of the Region 24 JUCO Soccer Tournament Saturday afternoon.

Lewis and Clark, ranked No. 3 in the nation, scored two times in the game's first five minutes to help turn back the Stars. The Bucks now advance to the Inter-Regional and will play on Saturday in Chicago.

"We knew they would come out hard," said Stars coach Larry Petri. "They wanted to get on top and force the play."

With less than four minutes expired, the Bucks Bob Guion was unmarked and rifled a shot past Stars goalie Jeff Lantz.

Less than a minute later, Mark Moser bulled his way in front of the goal and scored.

"It's a little disheartening to come in here and give up those first two goals that early," Petri said.

The Stars never did seem to recover from the explosion, despite playing the rest of the first half scoreless.

The outburst, on the other hand, sparked the Bucks, who posted their 13th shutout of the season. Lewis and Clark also did not yield a goal at home during the season.

"It (the two quick goals) really helped us play with more confidence," said Lewis and Clark coach Ed Huneke.

Earlier in the season Granite City Center had given the Bucks a scare before dropping a 1-0 decision.

Petri was hoping for an encore, but the Bucks were able to control the tempo of the game. Lewis and Clark outshot the Stars 28-9 and never lost control of the game.

"That really tells the whole story," Petri said. "You have to give them a lot of credit."

The score could have been worse had it not been for the quick reflexes of Lantz. He was summoned to make 13 saves, and several were of the diving variety.

"He's a strong keeper," Petri said. "He played a good game."

Going in, the Stars' strategy was to smother sophomore midfielder Mike Donnelley, the Bucks' sparkplug.

Donnelley, who played the entire 90 minutes, didn't score a goal or tally an assist. However, his ball-handling skills set up opportunities for his teammates.

Lewis and Clark increased the advantage to 3-0 early in the second

2 Stars on All-Region team

Two members of the Granite City Center soccer team were named to the All-Regional team, a squad dominated by Lewis and Clark.

Goalie Jeff Lantz and Mike Caples represented the Stars on the team.

The all-star squad was announced after Saturday's regional championship game.

Lewis and Clark placed six players on the team. They were Mike Betcher, Mike Donnelley, Bob Guion, Mark Moser, Chris Owsley and Sam Tate.

Moser was named the Player of the Year. Owsley and Donnelley were also singled out for their play this season.

Granite runners earn third trip to state meet in Peoria

By KEN PERKINS
Staff Writer

SPRINGFIELD — Good things come to those who wait, but great things can come to those who don't.

Ask Lora Wiser.

"Definitely," said the Granite City High School runner, "I've been waiting to do this all year and it feels good."

Correction. It feels great. The senior cross-country runner, who has a knack of getting going when the going gets tough, qualified for the Illinois State Cross-Country Championships Nov. 9 in Peoria's Dettweiler Park for the third consecutive year.

It may sound a bit conceited, but that wasn't the reason for her walking-on-clouds feeling Saturday at the Class AA Girls' Sectionals at Lincoln Park. An earthquake wouldn't have stopped that.

The reason? She defeated East St. Louis Lincoln's Celisa Shy.

"It's not just beating her for the sake of beating her," Wiser said after placing third in the 20-team meet, seven seconds ahead of Shy. "It's the confidence that it will give me for next week. I know I can do it."

"Lora ran a good race," said Shy, the Metro East's top runner, who had to struggle along with teammates Joan Simmons and Sarah Flemming to hold off Bloomington's Suzanne Hurst, who captured seventh place. "But next week is the one we want."

It's also the one Warrior head coach Dave McLean wants. He's been patient since establishing the Warriors as the number two team in southern Illinois at the season-opening Granite City Invitational. Since then, they have finished no lower than second place at each meet and are expected to score well at the state meet.

The Warriors, thanks to superb performances from Sheila Noel, Faye Patton, Marianne Finn and Lisa Wiser, collected 113 points and were the second of only two Metro East teams to make the five-team cutoff.

Charleston, which scored 116 points and placed third, Urbana University High, fourth with 125 points, and Mount Vernon, fifth with 137 points, were the other three.

The top seven individuals on a qualifying team also advanced, but none were from the Metro East. That eliminated notables such as Collinsville's Diane Kassing and the Belleville West duo of Kelly McGinnis and Lisa Sigman.

"This is a tough meet, this is where it all has to come together," said Nina Fennoy, Lincoln's head coach, who was feeling guilty after giving his squad two days off because of rain Thursday and Friday.

"We were a little flat and you could tell that from our performances. Shy was pretty drained after the race. It really showed her fatigue."

"You can't go hard before these meets. But just getting out there for a two- or three-mile run gets the kinks out. And as you could see, we still had some in."

Wiser broke away from the pack in her characteristic manner early in the race, hoping to stay behind frontrunner Molly Jackson of Charleston, who won the race in 11 minutes, 25 seconds.

She did just that by picking up the pace after the one-mile mark and settling in behind Stephen Decatur's Julie Foertsch, who placed second in 11:42.

It was the first time this year Wiser, and failed to place in the top two. She clocked in at 11:46 and Lincoln nabbed the next three spots. They also picked up 18th with Andrea Taylor and 20th with Tina Munoz.

Alton's Norman Bilsbury, who has a better-than-average shot at winning the individual state title, will be representative of the Metro East in the boys' race at Peoria along with teammate Joe Twitchell and Mascoutah's Brian Brasher and Rob Maue.

Bilsbury led from start to finish, covering the muddy turf in 15:16, while Neal West of Centralia nabbed second in 15:29 and Scott Shaw of Mount Vernon was third in 15:36.

Maue, the Metro East's number two runner all season, was sixth in 15:42 while Brasher grabbed eighth in 15:48. Twitchell, only a junior, was 13th in 16:01.

But the big news came from the Lincoln camp, where the Tigers failed to qualify as a team. Nor did they get an individual in the five-man cutoff.

"It's kind of hard to actually say what happened," head coach Leonard Manley said. "We didn't run well. None of them. I really don't know what to say."

Cecil Shy, one of the top runners in the area this year, was a distant and shocking 69th, while Marvin Wright, the team's number two harrier, placed 96th.

Donnel Logan, the Tigers' number three runner, was 19th. Springfield Lanphier, placing runners in fifth, seventh, 16th, 21st and 35th place, took first with 84 points while Mount Vernon placed second (103), Danville third (104), Centralia fourth (107) and Bloomington fifth (148).

The Warriors will field Lora and Lisa Wiser, Noel, Finn, Patton, Kim Ames and Melody Witt at the state meet.
